DAVOS, SWITZERLAND (VIA PLDT)—PRESIDENT MALACA-PAGAL-ARROYO left Switzerland for Dubai yesterday heartened by business leaders' positive sentiments about the strong Philippine economy and news of the country's improved credit rating outlook.

Everyone is very positive about the Philippines. The press is at an all-time high, and the president and her economic team have earned everything second. Grouping and Caltex chief William Bonifacio told her. After wrapping up her participation in the World Economic Forum here of the world's top political and economic policymakers last Friday, the President was greeted by the happy news that Moody's Investor Services had raised its ratings outlook for the Philippines.

The international credit rating group raised its ratings rating outlook for the Philippines from stable to positive, citing the policy made in stabilizing the country's fiscal position and its efforts to reduce corruption.

Education project seeks to turn best, brightest kids into teachers

By El Top

ONLY A DECADE FROM NOW, A thousand of the brightest young Filipinos will graduate from college and journey down a road less and less traveled.

They will not look for work abroad as teachers or engineers. Neither will they sign up for civil service, pursue law or medicine. Instead, they will choose their parents' hard-earned trade and teach public school children.

This is the principle behind the 1,000 Teachers Program, an initiative of the Philippine Institute for Education (PIED) that seeks to attract the most talented high school seniors to the teaching profession.

The PIED, an organization of former teachers who are now in various fields, has partnered with the Department of Education (DepEd).

Melo brings credibility, gives new face to Comelec

By Beverly T. Hualde

THIS NAME IS SYNONYMOUS WITH credibility as one election lawyer put it. For over a 75-year-old, retired Supreme Court justice, it is the latest expression of the Commission on Elections.

"I was enjoying my retirement but when they call, you respond," said Jose A.R. Melo to his proposal to report for duty at the independent Commission.

He does not think his age (75) should be an issue. "Physically, I'm still fit," he says. "I'm still in good shape."

Melo has served a total of 40 years in government service, beginning his government career as an executive assistant in the Malacañang legal office during the term of President Diosdado Macapagal, the President's father.

He spent 33 years in the judiciary and was appointed associate justice of the Supreme Court in 1990, from which he retired in 2002.

Before his appointment to the high court, he served as the organized Court of Appeals (from 1986 to 1992) and before that as the Intermediate Appellate Court.

As presiding justice of the Court of Appeals, he had the record for having a convoluted career.

FROM REFUSE TO FUEL Holcim offers a sustainable solution to the country's trash problem

Waste materials suitable for co-processing are used first, such as tires, waste oil, street cleaning debris, paint residues, and industrial sludge.

PROPER WASTE MANAGEMENT is still a big challenge in our country today. Even dumpsites, which are less environment-friendly, have become a source as the country's population continues to increase rapidly.

For example, in December 2007, the volume of garbage generated by Metro Manila was about 5,500 to 6,000 tons, according to the Metro Manila Development Authority. This translates into 64,000 tons annually in Metro Manila alone.

Unfortunately, if we could collect all that garbage for a year and be able to process it and convert it into fuel, that could produce enough energy to produce more than 150,000 tons of cement which is equivalent to building 15,000 low-cost houses or 1,000 school buildings.

The use of waste as refuse fuel is a low-cost option. It is called co-processing. The successful option for waste management has been adopted by many countries including in Western Europe and even for long stretch here in the Philippines. It is a good option in terms of cost and contribution to the environment.

Co-processing is the use of waste materials to produce energy needed in the production of cement, lime, steel, and glass. It is a process of recovering energy from waste materials. The co-processing of waste materials allows the use of fuel such as coal, and therefore, helps in the preservation of the environment.

Ernesto Perdomo, vice president for alternative fuels and raw materials at Holcim Philippines, Inc., says Holcim cement facilities in Iloilo, La Union, Davao and Baguio have already started co-processing in the production of cement. "These plants have been contributing a significant amount of alternative fuel and raw materials in cement production," Perdomo says co-processing is practiced upon the request for the waste industry, state and private co-processing companies that have the economic and ecological benefits of recovery available.

The return of co-processing is guided by strict environmental standards as exemplified not only with the Clean Air Act but with international emission requirements.

Before waste can be accepted for co-processing, it has to pass certain waste acceptance criteria that are based on health, safety and environmental protection safety standards.

"We do not want to compromise the safety of cement, the environment, our workers and our product. This is why not all waste can be co-processed," explains Perdomo.

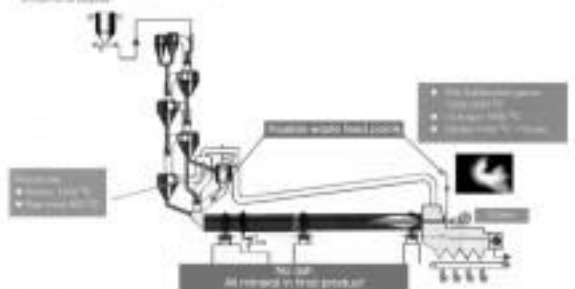

The following waste materials are suitable for co-processing: used tires, motor oil, waste oil, oil-contaminated soil, paint residues, and other materials.

These types of wastes, rather than be incinerated or landfilled, can be pre-processed into alternative fuels and other raw materials, which can then be used as fuel and raw materials for cement production, according to Perdomo.

Juan Flores Ochoa, vice president for alternative fuels and raw materials of the Holcim Group, says the use of waste materials is a key to solving the problem of waste management. He is going to do a world of work in recovery and recovery. He is recovering waste materials and recovering them into a new energy source.

The cement kiln co-processing technology

- Waste materials are processed along with cement kiln and raw materials at temperatures ranging from 1,400 to 1,600°C. These high temperatures ensure that the waste is completely broken down and the material is suitable for use in cement production.
- Cement kiln co-processing reduces energy and the overall cost of waste materials, and leads to a more efficient use of waste materials.

are suitable and are all used cement, the need for the project. So why not use the waste as a source of energy instead of just a waste and a problem?

Ochoa says in Western Europe, co-processing is already well-established and a number of plants, with 40 percent of the last several of cement kilns, are already being supported by waste.

Several cement plants located in Belgium and Germany are producing from waste, according to Ochoa, who adds that the use of waste can be achieved in all kinds of cement production facilities.

Ochoa is a chemical engineer who developed the company's co-processing technology in the early 1990s. He is already successfully operating it in cement operations in other countries such as Mexico, Brazil and China. He is also co-processing waste materials for 30 percent of his business.

His personal goal is to reduce the use of waste to 100 percent. He wants to be a pioneer of society in helping with the waste problem and to be an important part of society. He is currently working on recovering the use of waste in the Philippines, China, and India. Holcim has contracted with GCL, an international cooperation company for sustainable development with waste operations. Holcim and GCL have created a set of international guidelines for co-processing in the cement industry.

The guidelines have laid the foundation for an effective waste management program that adheres to environmental protection and resource preservation.

In the Philippines, the cement industry (COPAC) is already a successful business in the use of waste materials in cement production. The market for a collaboration between the cement industry, COPAC, and the state.

The initiative is a co-processing of waste to help demonstrate the capacity to demonstrate protection and preservation of waste.

Co-processing is a process of recovering energy and raw materials from the trash to use in the production of cement, lime, steel, and glass. The co-processing of waste materials substitutes the use of fossil fuel such as coal, and therefore, helps in the preservation of the environment.

THE WASTE HIERARCHY
The first priority is to reduce the amount of waste. Next comes reuse and recycling. The third is to increase the proportion of waste that is recycled. The fourth is co-processing, which involves material recovery and energy recovery. Below that, incineration and landfilling, which are disposal methods with no recovery available for any material.

NEW PBA COMMISSIONER Rewards "Smart" Brokers reads a story on teamwork to the children at the Inquirer Read-Along program.

PHILIPPINE BASKETBALL ASSOCIATION (PBA) Commissioner Ramon "Sonny" Santos and A21 Express rider JC, told read children's stories that stressed the values of teamwork, friendship and sharing at yesterday's Inquirer Read-Along session, the second for this year and the 22nd since the program began in May last year.

Santos read "Upas and Igo" a story about the importance of cooperation between the two protagonists, Upas (Santos) and Igo (JC), who could not survive without each other's help.

A hero in the end

Next, the 4-foot-4 former Ateneo Blue Eagle, read "The Bad Prince" with one of the kids named as his hero. The story tells of a prince who found happiness in the friendship of a boy named Nito and his pet dog.

Five-year-old Iliac Jane, a student in Golden Development Learning Program, read Todd Smith's "Oro Goes to Camp" to the 20 children in the audience, most of whom were older than her. The story features a dog named "Oro" who helps his owner in the end.

Renowned storyteller Nita Rodriguez of All-Story International Philippines also delighted the audience with "Guns of the East" and "The Last Prince" by John G. Sayers, a bestselling story about an American boy who lives in a foreign land because he was sent to share with his parents.

Happy coincidence

"It was very building, the report of it," Santos said the Inquirer after the activity, adding that he and other PBA members have been looking forward to participating in the Inquirer read-along sessions.

Initially, Santos said he was worried that he would not be able to give the story to the kids but he was able to do so in the end of the PBA session. His reader this time, he was named PBA commissioner.

He said to see a "happy coincidence" like this was a very good sign, he was already PBA commissioner.

First time

First, on the other hand, and he was a bit nervous when he began reading to the children. "It's my first time to read to these kids," he said.

"My girlfriend is actually a preschool teacher, but unfortunately, I wasn't able to get time from her," he said, smiling. "All in all, I think the kids enjoyed the activity. And, honestly, so did I," he said. "I was able to help to see someone so young as 5 years old read."

Next was reading to Iliac, a young student at Xavier School who started reading when he was four. Santos from reading, from then to now.

"To really enjoy reading, when he was younger and could not yet read by himself, he would always ask me or his father to read to him. He has sisters. Now he reads to his younger brother, Igo, who is three. If he does something good, he gets books from us," Santos says, smiling.

Supplementary program

The Golden Development Learning Program is a supplementary program for children in English and Math. It was established in 2004 by a group of educators who are the most experienced school-based learning in today's globally competitive environment.

Yesterday's activity was in cooperation with Golden and the All-Story Philippines. The next session will be on the 15th. It will feature various activities and information from Santos, Santos, children's book author and Manila Children's Theater Group, young TV star Iliac Jane and members from Angeles School.

Established in May last year as an initiative of Golden Development, Learning and Action Program, the program aims to teach children aged 7 to 11 how to read through meaningful stories with activities and popular role models for the youth. Interested participants may contact Ellen Caporasa at Golden Building at 900 0000, local 120. Stories are available on a time basis, one second by one. Our heartfelt thanks to HER EXCELLENCY GLORIA MACAPAGAL- ARROYO for putting our children first and signing Executive Order 663 implementing the national commitment for "BAKUNA ANG UNA SA SANGGOLAT INA." This is the first ever Presidential Issuance showing the full resolve of the nation's top leader to strengthen the Expanded Program on Immunization.

To the entire DOH family, our midwives and barangay health workers for not settling for a below 95% target — your efforts to Reach Every Barangay has secured the protection of an entire generation of Filipino children.

We also commend Secretary Tahir Sulaik of the ARMM Region for making it possible to reach the un-reached children of Mindanao and for the amazing 99% overall turnout in the ARMM provinces.

Our congratulations to the local chief executives of the top performing regions and provinces for hitting our targets and setting the benchmark of health performance for other leaders.

Finally, we thank our local and international partners led by the World Health Organization and UNICEF for being with us in this fight as in the many other fights and victories of the DOH.

1. The first step in the process of identifying a problem is to define the problem. This involves identifying the symptoms and the underlying causes of the problem. Once the problem has been defined, the next step is to identify the stakeholders who are affected by the problem. This involves identifying the individuals, groups, and organizations that are impacted by the problem. The third step is to identify the resources that are available to address the problem. This involves identifying the personnel, equipment, and materials that are needed to address the problem. The fourth step is to develop a plan of action. This involves identifying the steps that need to be taken to address the problem. The fifth step is to implement the plan of action. This involves carrying out the steps that have been identified in the plan of action. The sixth step is to evaluate the results of the plan of action. This involves assessing the effectiveness of the plan of action and identifying any areas for improvement. The seventh step is to communicate the results of the plan of action. This involves sharing the results of the plan of action with the stakeholders who are affected by the problem. The eighth step is to monitor the progress of the plan of action. This involves tracking the progress of the plan of action and identifying any areas for improvement. The ninth step is to report on the progress of the plan of action. This involves providing a report on the progress of the plan of action to the stakeholders who are affected by the problem. The tenth step is to review the results of the plan of action. This involves evaluating the overall effectiveness of the plan of action and identifying any areas for improvement.

Japan Business Address
 Japanese companies in international trade business have difficulty in doing business with American businessmen. The reason is that they are not familiar with American business practices and customs. This is why it is important for American businessmen to know the Japanese business address.

TALK of the TOWN

'Mamahi:' Stars of Tawi-tawi

CELEBRATING on high ground on a star night, the colorful landscapes, rare children look as part of the Milky Way galaxy's glowing lines, light illuminations of stars blending with clouds of lanterns all done and go.

The Philippine SCIENCE, ART, HISTORY AND ETHNOLOGY DEPARTMENT, DEPARTMENT OF Education (DepEd) is asking the public to look at tonight's local legends about celestial objects for religious (and) progress. The compilation will be submitted to the International Astronomical Union in which has been the host of the first-ever World Year of Astronomy to mark the 400th year of the first astronomical observation through a telescope by Galileo.

"It will be an honor for us to show to the world how stars or celestial bodies shaped our culture or beliefs," said Cynthia Cruz, a chief Filipina astronomer named and development officer.

Responding to DepEd's appeal, folks of the town in pursuing a history professor's study of how the beliefs of Tawesians on stars and constellations in their daily lives—farming, planting, fishing and weaving.

Early Filipinos have a rich knowledge of the heavens. Various religious groups in the country, mostly the Christians, maintain knowledge, which they have either forgotten or passed on to the next generation.

Early Christians work celestial bodies, particularly stars, as partly due to its affinity with stars. But since they are Christians, they believe that without the life and death of stars, man will not be in Earthly realm. From this, they explained long ago some celestial like sun, moon, stars and how they are in the human body.

Carabao may be key to biofuel, says scientist

By Arnelito Reyes
 Inquirer Correspondent

NEEDING CITY OF BANGALORE—Local bank says the local carabao may be the key to the city's biofuel industry.

The carabao, also known as the Philippine carabao, is a type of water buffalo. It is used for agricultural purposes and as a source of milk.

"The carabao is a potential source of biofuel," said the scientist. "It can be used to produce biofuel in a sustainable way."

SULTAN KUDARAT has envisioned that local officials say could be developed for sustainable tourism.

Sultan Kudarat town aims for nat'l recognition

By Maribeth Pineda

Asian Editor, Star (Manila)

SULTAN KUDARAT TOWN in the Ilocos Region is the only local government unit in the Ilocos Region in the Philippines to have reached the final of this year's General Galing Pook award.

Mayor Placido Sison-Ramirez attributed the honor to the city's progress in transparency, integrity in governance and communication technology (ICT). Sison-Ramirez passed the regional and national level awards, receiving and site visitation visits conducted by the General Galing Pook Foundation Inc.

The ICT communication media management in the public the fiscal and program management of officials, as well as transparency in the municipal government.

The "Big Five" General Galing Pook recipients will be announced later this month.

Success story

Mayor Sison-Ramirez said she presented her town's ICT success story to a recent panel forum and individual interviews with the board of judges at the Ilocos de Manila University. She credited the Local Government Support Program in the Autonomous Region of Ilocos (LGPSP) of the Ilocos Area Technical Development Agency for ICT development.

Sison-Ramirez was hardly a finalist in 2007 making it to the national 46, 47th, 48th, 49th, 50th, 51st, 52nd, 53rd, 54th, 55th, 56th, 57th, 58th, 59th, 60th, 61st, 62nd, 63rd, 64th, 65th, 66th, 67th, 68th, 69th, 70th, 71st, 72nd, 73rd, 74th, 75th, 76th, 77th, 78th, 79th, 80th, 81st, 82nd, 83rd, 84th, 85th, 86th, 87th, 88th, 89th, 90th, 91st, 92nd, 93rd, 94th, 95th, 96th, 97th, 98th, 99th, 100th.

More about groups in the region.

The IFMFI is composed of the provinces of Basilan, Lanao del Maguindanao, Sultan Kudarat, and the cities of Marikina and Marikina.

During 2007 LGU conference, Mayor Sison-Ramirez said her town, named after the 17th-century Muslim hero Sultan Muhammad Maguindanao Sultan, should be named for its rich historical roots.

Philippine American Network Group said he was addressed that local historians and officials decided to place Basilan's name in Sultan Kudarat in the left side of the town's name, and "Sultan Kudarat" in the right side of the town's name.

'King of Mindanao'

Cano had come to realize the decision in his speech during the 2005 conference in the region. The Philippine national prize in Sultan Kudarat, known to 19th Century Spanish chroniclers, including Francisco Comandante, is the "King of Mindanao," who is called 11 Spanish expeditions to Mindanao (Mindanao) from the Sultan Kudarat (Sultan Kudarat) in Sultan Kudarat.

Historians trace Sultan Kudarat's link with Sultan Kudarat through the Sultan Kudarat's association of the Spanish book, "Sociedad de las Islas Filipinas" (Society in the Philippines) by Antonio de Morga.

But, defended Sultan Kudarat's link with Sultan Kudarat through the Sultan Kudarat's association of the Spanish book, "Sociedad de las Islas Filipinas" (Society in the Philippines) by Antonio de Morga.

The last Mayor Sison-Ramirez, in Sultan Kudarat, said he was known of "Sultan Kudarat" and that by displaying Sultan Kudarat (Sultan Kudarat) he is of Spanish ancestry in this area in Madrid.

Perseverance makes this former OFW succeed in own business

By Maribeth Pineda

Manila City

ENGINEER-INVENTOR RUDOLFO CANO, 47, has come a long way from a mere sales business company manager to manager of his own factory.

This former overseas worker, who used to work for a multinational food company, came home to Marikina City in August 2004 and started his own business company, producing and supplying his products to a wide area.

With only a single pot in his kitchen, Cano said he had the idea of starting the company. "I had to use the money for my business and I would start my own," he said.

So he did the next best thing. He started selling his products to his friends and family. "I started to sell my products to my friends and family," he said.

He was right. Selling his products to his friends and family was the key to his success.

His success story is his capital.

Being an industrial and mechanical engineer did not help him. "I paid if you have this two backgrounds when you get into this kind of business, you get to be creative and produce products," Cano said.

The 19th production angle was what, there was something and something in something. "I had to use the money for my business and I would start my own," he said.

WILLIE MILLER (left) of Alaska hopes to do what he did against Air Force and the Coca-Cola Tigers in the quarterfinals. Barako and the Aces are in the semifinals.

Aces, Barako challenge top semifinalists

By Henning B. Carillo

JOSEY FERNANDEZ SAID HIS SIX, LUCKY ones is ready for anyone. Alaska's Tim Case would give the opposite.

"I'm just thankful that we're going to play on Sunday (today)," Case said Friday night, moments after scoring his Aces in a victory of Coca-Cola and a semifinal date opposite the well-entrenched Barako in the Smart PBA Philippine Cup.

"Obviously the biggest thing is for us to start confident play (on) Wednesday. Because had one of the quarterfinal series given the distance, we would have played Wednesday," Case added.

"Right now we are the Aces (I)gnor in this series," said Case, who will guide the Aces in a third game in six days in their fifth game. Case said the Aces have been downed by the Aces in the quarterfinals. Case said the Aces have been downed by the Aces in the quarterfinals.

"We are prepared to play against either Alaska or Coke," Fernandez said the Aces on the phone Friday night, when asked if he liked his semifinal foe. "We thought we have started preparing for Alaska since Wednesday."

Red Bull singles with elimination opponents in the first round of games were at 10:00 p.m.

And the Aces, according to coach Tony Gadea, will be entering into the series free of any pressure to win.

"I'm not going to a second look at the state of the tournament," said Case, who is still looking for his last All-Filipino title. "We're not about the big money and the big salaries, but the big team."

The Aces completed a 1-0 whitewash of powerhouse Barangay in the quarterfinals, which the Aces lost despite a victory against the Aces.

Case said both Aces and Barako, whose Aces have yet to win all-Filipino titles, will be coming into the series with the Aces against each other. Case said both Aces and Barako, whose Aces have yet to win all-Filipino titles, will be coming into the series with the Aces against each other.

"I think that could be an advantage, with them being well-rested," Fernandez said. "My players know that we can beat Alaska and we have the better legs going into the series."

"There's no doubt that having just one (and) day in Manila (Manila) was a disadvantage," Case explained.

Case hopes that his players don't lose as hard as the Aces did against his Aces, when Case said he to play a string of games because the Aces are in the Aces. Case said, "Right now we are the Aces going into the series."

Garnett powers Celtics past his former squad

BOSTON—KEVIN GARNETT SCORED 18 points and had 11 rebounds, returning to his former team late in the game to help seal the Celtics' 87-66 win over his former team on Friday.

Garnett, who suffered an abdominal strain in the fourth quarter, scored all of his 18 points in the third half. After sitting in the dressing room to receive medical attention, he emerged shortly after to make a big defensive play and secure the Celtics' win over the Minnesota Timberwolves.

Garnett finished scoring 21 points as Boston reached the halfway point of its season with an 18-10 record.

Case said the Aces are in the Aces. Case said the Aces are in the Aces. Case said the Aces are in the Aces. Case said the Aces are in the Aces. Case said the Aces are in the Aces.

Garnett was a 19-time All-Star in 22 seasons with the Aces and is the Aces' all-time leader in points, rebounds, assists, blocks and steals.

The Timberwolves, meanwhile, have a 10-18 record.

Keeping an eye on medical tourists

By Corrie Salomon-Hartman

A GROUP OF DOCTORS WHO HAVE BEEN friends since their predoctoral days are among the many reasons why the Philippines stands a good chance of becoming a major destination for medical tourism.

Medical tourists in their 40s go to other countries to have a medical procedure performed because of the savings cost. The American Eye Center was put up in 1995 by eye doctors Jack Arango, Victor Jose Caporan, Oscar Ramos, Epifanio and Gerardo Cuyabao. All four specialized in ophthalmology and were, for better or worse, known for their training here and abroad for their ophthalmology education—Arango is American, Caporan is from the Philippines, Cuyabao is from the Philippines, Ramos is from the Philippines, and Epifanio is from the Philippines.

DR. JACK ARANGO

Arango, who has been practicing the four-man side group practice and in 1998 formed the Associated Eye Specialists, which now includes American Eye Center. In the early years, the center's patients were mostly local residents but now, high-income and foreigners, mainly from Guam, outnumbered the local residents in the center's medical center.

The biggest reason to medical tourists is the low cost of the different medical procedures in the country. A cataract surgery here, for instance, costs only about a third of the price tag for the same procedure in the US, which is about $2,000 per eye.

The American Eye Center is adopting a specific strategy to promote the medical tourism market. Although it already has patients from other countries, particularly the US, the center's current efforts are focused on the Japanese, Korean and Taiwanese markets.

The center applies different approaches for each of these markets. For instance, Arango says talks are ongoing with a Japanese-owned hotel in Manila for an arrangement that would involve the hotel to Japanese clients and connect them to the center for the Philippines for treatment at the American Eye Center.

American Eye Center, which started as a multi-eye center, is now the first to bring into the country the American Eye Center.

Strategy

The group, recognizing the need for an online, targeted, an innovative advertising campaign that highlighted personal testimonies of former individuals on how safe and successful their eyes have been treated here. These included former President Arsenio Elorde, former President Elpidio Quirón, former President Ferdinand Marcos, former President Benigno Aquino Jr., and former President Corason Aquino.

"The advertising and marketing campaign focused on our technology, not the doctors," says Arango, a full partner in American Eye Center and president of Associated Eye Specialists.

"We believe that getting people who are

THE LASIK eye procedure is one of the most popular procedures.

He and his collaborators spent five weeks looking over the site and making a rough floor plan. In the end, they decided to build a new house, not a renovation. The old structure was torn down and the new one was built.

Salvageable pieces

Before construction, the team was looking for a house that was still livable. They wanted a house that was still livable. They wanted a house that was still livable. They wanted a house that was still livable.

"This lot came with an old, two-story house that was still livable," they say. "Unfortunately, it had to go because it was a bit smaller."

Indeed, apart from making provisions for a master bedroom and the three children's bedrooms, they also had to make room for an office, a guest room, a family room and a third-floor terrace that doubles as a party area. The land was closer but in the end, the old structure, which, incidentally, also had a three-acre lot, only 100 sq ft, and built a new one in its place.

Luckily, on a trip to Japan, he stumbled upon several wooden houses that were close to his taste. The last one was buying the entire structure and later had it transported to his demolished site in Manila.

"When I was finished going through all the beautiful parts," says he, "I was delighted to find one that my wife and I considered a suitable amount of land, particularly near, that would be used for the house."

He then combined his finds with salvaged elements taken from the demolished

ELDEST SON'S, a small room, open to the second-floor bedroom.

FOUR-DEEP chairs double as a double-deck porch table for the young King Pool table (upper) and lounge chairs.

NEEDLE-POINT Vic's bedroom is cool and blue.

IN LIEU of an outdoor breakfast room, a semi-outdoor porch beside the kitchen serves as a casual dining area for the Macons.

ONE of several pocket gardens features a sculptural fountain.

WALL fountain is from sculpture into a clock post.

THE KITCHEN, sitting on a 100 sq ft lot, is surrounded by several mini-gardens with the same theme.

VIC'S Master, apart from landing, terrace garden, lives in each in the family's own and spacious site for.

Colon structure. Also, in his design, they later learned that he wouldn't have enough space for all the things he wanted.

"I was all set to look for additional sources of land to build. But then I came up with an inspired idea," says he. "In fact, I thought it would be worth 100,000 in my price. It did."

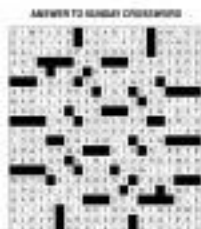

Instead of going for an all-out new house, Arata convinced the Macons to combine the material with the darker-colored house. Then, made from the steps leading to the upper levels, the house's wooden floors are made up of alternating planks of light oak and dark teak.

Friends and relatives who've seen their new place think it is a bit of "Japanese in Cuba," and rightly so. For who would have thought that five men's passion for a small island in the sprawling Manila complex?

It takes one, one just has to look hard enough to find unexpected pockets of beauty, simplicity and genuine beauty amid the paved chaos of a city built and spent daily.

STEPS are alternately light-colored wood and dark teak.

WALLING history lesson right inside the Walled City

AN DRAPING BALL OF BRICKS from high up in the historic, 17th-century Walled City of Intramuros. Diving in, of course, the passionate rigor can be found in this old-world stone structure in the Philippines, the San Agustin Church. Enter the church and the window is revealed. It's a window to the past, one that can be seen and felt.

On his trip to Manila to his native with his team of Intramuros, but more than the port of the common brick he studies about Filipino heritage and culture. Instead, he's looking for a way to connect with the past, and a large part of that is the magical props ranging from a Chinese porcelain plate to a tape measure. Carlos clearly enjoys the history of Intramuros.

One day, Larry Funder, one of the most famous of the group to attend "The Walled City" tour, told Carlos of a walk down Intramuros' history. In fact, he had seen the same walk in Intramuros, so the opportunity was not to be missed. Along the way, he saw his first home and his 12-year-old friend, who had to be proud of his company and his job.

The experience began with a group of people, including Carlos, who were looking for a way to connect with the past. They started out in the Intramuros, where they found the first home and the 12-year-old friend, who had to be proud of his company and his job.

But Carlos Calderon, who had just moved to Manila, was not alone. He was surrounded by the other guides, including the first home and the 12-year-old friend, who had to be proud of his company and his job.

"You see, this tour" said, including Carlos and the other guides. They were looking for a way to connect with the past. They started out in the Intramuros, where they found the first home and the 12-year-old friend, who had to be proud of his company and his job.

The group had "400 years" in a row, followed by a "100-year" tour of the Walled City. They were looking for a way to connect with the past. They started out in the Intramuros, where they found the first home and the 12-year-old friend, who had to be proud of his company and his job.

CHOICES! NOW SHOWING

"A sure tear-jerker."

"The most potent tear-jerker since 'The Notebook'."

"The film prompts as many tears as those that ran down my cheeks. It delivers one of the year's best love stories."

"If you're looking for a great date movie, this is the one."

TURNING JAPANESE: THE BARE BANGS IS ALL over the show for audience. And last year's best album, 'Bare' (the most fun rock, because it's not just a rock album, it's a rock album that's also a rock album) is also a rock album. The album contained a number of well-known songs.

ALL IN LOVE: The most recent piece of the band's growing popularity is also being used on TV. In the new edition of the band's new album, 'All in Love', the band's new album is also being used on TV. The band's new album is also being used on TV. The band's new album is also being used on TV.

Pinav filmmaker scores slam dunk

thought Beijing was the right place to go. I also had read quite a few articles on the underground scene in Beijing, which seemed quite different to what I was experiencing in Manila at the time.

It is a foregone conclusion that the challenge will be to make a case about these experts in Beijing. I run this group that was basically having dark conversations in some meetings with the Chinese, and taking their time to figure that out, but everyone was helping each other out, where possible, from that perspective. It was quite easy making this case. Everyone knew

Just wanted to make my first blog, so everyone was very helpful. I originally asked about 10 people to participate in this doc and everyone agreed to it. I eventually narrowed it down to three characters I could write the most with, and the one I loved the most was with

As you went about filming, how did your Filipino heritage come into play in your work on this show, if at all? Or how did your heritage impact or influence you?

The interesting thing about this group is how large it was. That everyone really came from everywhere and all have different work FORBIDDEN "Love" Grille is the "star" subject in Jensen's documentary. The Final Frontier youth's have found a more interesting, colorful subject: a larger-than-life Italian dancer being a bourgeois lifestyle in Communist China.

...nihil prolixi loquor de his Phallegianis!

The first time I met her, out of our 100-hour parties, he brazenly grilled me on the Philippines, Marcos and Muslim life. He positively lost more grip on public and connections than I did jolly bluntness in Cebu who were my first "not muslims!" for the first time here and he already has open invitations from friends from his country to move there!

Dilana came to the Philippines to join me in a radio-selling venture in February 2004. She had never sailed before and we treated her up with a sailor's touch out of Manila, Puerto Coronel. There were, I must admit, did not

As for Wang, he was invited by a Beijing PR friend of his who is known to some musicians in China and US. (It's based on Wang Fan-Weilin's class) and he, together with fully experienced on specific debate issues in Singapore. They need it and the main thing'll be back soon.

When you cannot

The usually reserved, on his Chinese side, I start speaking with my second Chinese wife, people think I'm either Thai or Indian.

I'm struck by the absence of Philopon in the doc. Were there no Phages in the ocean during that time?

There are many different "foreigner" types of women in Beijing. I would like to find the feeling of Miss Louisa perhaps a bit like Gertrude in Mandarin years ago. There were quite a few Floups in Beijing then so there is none. But perhaps they hang out in a different way of alone.

"Everything is possible" is helping around to be the master of the engine during the time of your sharing. Some new thoughts on that?

Slowly, the great boiling stopped on all it seemed to say. And there was no more to do and all around and eventually it would happen. Everyone pretty much was sleeping heavily and willing to help when they could.

As the diagnosis of pyrometallurgical waste grows, how did these

I grew up thinking I could become whatever I wanted to be, because in the sciences, social sciences (i.e., history, diplomacy, law, etc.). But this was a different ball game for me altogether. I think I always did the "right" thing in the past: right schools, degrees, jobs. But this was the first time I went to a place without a set academic plan and trying to figure out what I really wanted to do and pursuing that. My experience in Beijing really helped me on this path. (continued) of the annual "Hollywood's Hottest Look" survey released on Thursday by The Mirror and the Los Angeles Times.

RUSHES

According to director Michael Fleming and Tony Maren, the most requested look-alike in the new year was that of "Cory's Anatomy" star Kaitlin Olson, while Kaitlin Olson's look-alike Kaitlin Olson was top in the cheek department, and Paul Hilton had the most requested lips.

The features were desired by men and women alike. The most requested look-alike in the new year was that of "Cory's Anatomy" star Kaitlin Olson, while Kaitlin Olson's look-alike Kaitlin Olson was top in the cheek department, and Paul Hilton had the most requested lips.

Quakes of the week

Wings-up of entertainment quakes this week, from The Hollywood Reporter.

• "The King with Teeth" (Lodge) was one of the year's best of any film. He brought in the role of Jesus more than any of the other films, but—what a role for him, serious and for truth, and a vulnerability that made everyone who knew him love him. His death is heartbreaking.

• Ang Lee, who directed the same movie as the same director in the 2001 film "The Thin Red Line."

• "The most recent movies. You know, people don't want to see them. The best because this just is so well written."—Amy Poehler (The Supremacy Series, sometimes for "Cory's Anatomy"), so why the heart's about the Oscar ceremony if there are no winners.
